BULGARIA HAS DECLARED WAR AGAINST RUMANIA

London, Eng., Sept. 1.—Bulgaria has declared war on Rumania, according to an official announcement made at Saloniki, as forwarded by Reuters correspondent there.

TURKEY HAS NOW DECLARED WAR AGAINST RUMANIA

Berlin, Germany, Sept. 1.—(By wireless to Saville, L. I.)—A dispatch from Constantinople says that at 8 o'clock last night the Turkish government delivered the Rumanian minister at Constantinople a declaration of war against Rumania.

The War At a Glance

THE official representative at Saloniki at the British press cables to London that king Constantine of Greece has abdicated in favor of crown prince George and that former premier Venizelos, leader of the party which favors intervention by Greece on the side of the entente allies, will be the power behind the throne. The correspondent regards it as uncertain whether the entente allies will be the assistance of Greece.

Greek Garrison Surrender

The surrender of three Greek garrisons in Macedonia to a committed, the nature of which is not indicated clearly, is reported from Saloniki. Other dispatches say there has been fighting between Greek regulars and volunteer forces.

Rumanian Troops are Continuing

Apparently without serious interruption, their invasion of Hungary, and have occupied several villages, according to an official announcement at Bucharest.

Bulgaria Declares War

On the Macedonian front comparative quiet continues. Bulgaria's expected declaration of war on Rumania is announced at Saloniki, according to an unofficial dispatch from that point.

Fairly Quiet Along the Somme

On the French front, fighting has died down, although the artillery was very active Thursday night in the Somme sector. The British official statement says the Germans have penetrated British positions on a small frontage near High wood.

Macedonia is UP IN REVOLT

Rebels Attack Saloniki Garrison; Disarmed; Take Two Other Garrisons.

London, Eng., Sept. 1.—The beginning of a revolution in Macedonia is reported in a Reuter dispatch filed Thursday at Saloniki. Further details of the disturbance in Saloniki are given in a later dispatch to Reuters' Telegram company, which says that when the volunteers ascertained the regulars were unwilling to cooperate with them they surrounded the barracks in the night, cut the water main and electric wires and shut off food supplies.

A detachment of 60 regulars attempted to break its way out to obtain supplies. Its surrender was demanded, and when the regulars refused, the volunteers fired shots in the air. The regulars replied with a volley, whereupon the volunteers opened fire on them, compelling them to return to the barracks.

Revolutionists Disarmed

The soldiers refused to fight with the revolutionists, and the latter, after mediation, it was agreed that the soldiers should be disarmed and interned at Camp Zeleznik, south of the city. The officers were permitted to retain their swords, pledging themselves not to interfere with the revolutionists. The barracks were turned over to the French. It is understood a number of the officers and a considerable proportion of the men sympathize with the revolutionary movement and will now join it.

Vodena Garrison Revolts

It is also reported that the entire garrison at Vodena went over to a committee representing the revolutionists. The garrison at Port Little Karaburun refused to recognize the committee, whereupon revolutionists surrounded the fort. After news had been received of the submission of the Saloniki garrison the regulars at little Karaburun yielded.

His Capture of Saloniki

He finally became a national hero in the Balkan war of 1912, when he led an army of 10,000 Greeks to the capture of Saloniki, causing 20,000 Turks to lay down their arms. His popularity was such, as a result of this feat, that Greeks in America raised several thousand dollars to purchase a gift sword, inscribed: "To Constantine, the Liberator."

Brotherhoods May Yield if Congress is Determined To Pass It.

HOUSE BILL IS UNION FAVORITE

President Believes Legislation To Avoid a Strike Will Be Passed.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 1.—While senate and house were this afternoon considering separate bills designed to avoid the threatened national railroad strike, there were indications that the labor leaders would fight a proposal in the senate bill to empower the interstate commerce commission to govern wages, but would probably accept it if they saw congress was determined to include it in the bill.

Under a special rule providing for a vote not later than 4:30 this afternoon, the house took up the Adamson eight-hour day bill, approved by president Wilson and accepted by brotherhood leaders as a "satisfactory settlement."

The senate interstate commerce committee reported a similar bill which, however, contains an important provision empowering the interstate commerce commission to fix schedules of wages on interstate railways. It provides that the eight-hour day shall become effective Jan. 1, 1917; that the present pay for the 16-hour day shall apply to the shorter day; that overtime shall be paid pro rata; but adds that within not less than six and not more than 12 months after its passage, the interstate commerce commission shall assume jurisdiction of the question of hours and wages and that they shall be subject to petition for change from the employers, the employees or the public.

Last Provision May Cause Trouble. The possibility for a hitch seemed to be in this last provision which is being studied by the brotherhood leaders. The committee eliminated the proposal that on the report of the eight-hour day commission the interstate commerce commission "shall consider an increase of freight rates to meet such additional expenditures by the railroads affected as may have been rendered necessary by the adoption of the eight-hour day."

Some Features Eliminated. Neither of the two pending bills contain the Canadian commission plan which the labor leaders opposed, and neither contains the government operation provision. President Wilson is willing to let those features wait until after enough legislation to avert the strike has been enacted. Republicans decided today to frame a bill of their own and offer it as a substitute for the administration plan. A committee was appointed to draft it. No serious opposition to the administration plan was expected.

President Wilson told members of his cabinet at today's meeting that there was every prospect that the legislation would be passed by both houses of congress before tomorrow.

Bill Introduced in Senate.

At 2 o'clock senator Newlands introduced the senate's revised bill, and it was formally referred to the interstate commerce committee. Senator Newlands said he would seek to hold the senate in session until the whole subject was disposed of, even if it should extend the session far into the night.

Senator Newlands made a favorable report from the committee at 2:30 o'clock and unanimous consent was granted by the senate for immediate consideration. Senator Newlands opened the discussion.

8000 Fine For Hindering Trains.

Senator Newlands called special attention to a provision of the bill, added after the original draft had been submitted, which would declare any person who willfully delays, obstructs or hinders operation of trains, guilty of a misdemeanor, to be punished by a fine of $8000.

Kansas Man Picks Car From Auto Advertisements In Herald

BUSINESS men who have used the advertising columns of The Herald know that their advertisements in The El Paso Herald bring replies from all over the southwest. The automobile industry is so organized into central districts or selling zones that the territory of the El Paso dealers is a bit less than the territory covered by The Herald.

Replies to automobile advertisements from as far away as Bloom, Kansas, are unusual, to say the least, yet the Ponces Motor company, on Thursday, received a letter from E. M. Goodman, of Bloom, Kans., making inquiry about the Argo motor advertised in The El Paso Herald of last Saturday. It pays to use the advertising columns of The El Paso Herald.

Midsummer Edition of Herald Best In History of Southwest

From the Tombstone (Ariz.) Prospector.

THE EL PASO HERALD blossomed out in its Week-End Edition with a 72-page Midsummer Progress and Building edition that far surpasses anything ever issued in the southwest, and containing, as it does, words of reading, descriptive matter, together with illustrations, will do wonders in helping boost the Great Southwest.
